AMUSEMENT NOTES

Howe's Moving Pictures at The Opera House Tonight.

Cairo-the brightest jewel of the Nile and the doorway of Egypt is admirably shown in all its oriental brilliancy in Lyman H. Howe's new program at the opera house on next Wednesday evening Here the Orient seems to meet the occi-dent. The traffic at the Kas-e-Nil bridge shows as cosmopolitan a mixture of races and vehicles as could be im-agined. Modernized Cairo suggests its comparison to a Bedouin of the desert wearing a silk hat. Other scenes in Khedive and son with military escort, a departure of pilgrims for Mecca, an Arab cemetery, market scenes, etc. In a mo ment the audience is transferred to the Pyramids and Sphinx, then to the won-derful Temple Ruins at Thebes.

Another feature of the program is a visit to Russia and affords splendid views of St. Petersburg and Moscow, with its famous "King of Bells" which has never been rung and its "Czar of Cannon"-which has never been fired. Realistic in the extreme is the thrilling Flood of Moscow, which occurred a few is property, real property, with liability flood of Moscow, which describes of cost plainly stated in its chart and from death by drowning are vividly

"Under Southern Skies."

"Under Southern Skies" which appears in this city on next Friday after noon and evening is one of the series of plays by Lottie Blair Parker which por tray life in different sections of country. The first, depicting New Eng-land life was called "Way Down East." The second one, "Under Southern Skies" was first copyrighted as "Way Down South." It was produced in London at Messrs. Gatti & Frohman's theatre on October 29, 1901, under the caption of "Way Down South" or "Under Southern Skies." In this country, although known under both titles, "Under Southern Skies" has finally come to be used exclusively, as sub-titles are not much in favor as a single name. "Under Southern Skies" now stands without a rival as a picture of Southern life. Mrs. Parker is thoroughly familiar with southern people, their customs and man ner of thought, and some of her closest friends have been Southerners. Sk es" has a foundation in fact, for it was based upon the romantic history of a young southern girl which was related is quiet.

Quotations follows: reality in the play that has given it wherever it is presented and this, its eighth season, finds it enjoying greater popularity than ever. An unusually large cast, twenty-three people, is em-ployed in the presentation of the play, the stage settings are life-like reproduc-tions of the scenes in the sunny south, and a Hallowe'en celebration is reproduced, which surpasses anything of the kind ever seen upon the stage.

Everybody sisting of dialogues, drills, recitations and songs, was rendered by pupils from all the grades. A large and appreciative audience gathered both evenings. The entertainments reflected much credit upon both teachers and pupils and showed that careful conscientions work had been done to attain such good results.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores, or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures where they will put in some time in visiting schools. Miss Watt is to remain in town for the present.

By request, the drama was repeated Monday evening, Feb. 8th, to a goodsized audience. The receipts from the three evenings amounted to about $60, the net proceeds of which will be used for the benefit of the school.

The attendance in the village school as been very good. An enrollment of Never can tell when you'll mash a 22 in the primary room attained an aver-finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or age of 20%. The intermediate room had scald. Be prepared. The high and grammar grades had nearly as good an average. One attractive feature of these entertainments was an exhibition of work by pupils from all the schools in town.

Since the introduction of the graded system at the beginning of the fall, there has been a healthy spirit of good-natured rivalry among the schools, and the work exhibited shows that the pupils have worked enthusiastically and that there has been marked improvement along various lines. It is hoped that our voters will realize the benefits of the present system and take the necessary teps to insure its continuance.

FRESH EGGS IN WINTER

The poutryman who can supply fresh eggs in winter, when prices are high, has a tremendous advantage over the one who through ignorance or neglect has to walt until summer, when the supply is large and the price low. Not everyone can do this, and no one ean do it unless he takes proper care of his fowls and gives them food containing the essential egg-producing inlarge extent in summer. There is no material better fitted for this purpose than "Page's Perfected Poultry Food." George F. Tanner of Springfield, Vt., has used and sold this food for many years, and he speaks from experience when he says, in a recent letter: "For several years I have sold and used rage's Perecied Poultry Food, and do the speaker and the topic is "Light on not hesitate to say that I think it is Floriculture." one of the best foods on the market to make hens lay. Shall be pleased to handle it for you again this season." if you want to know more about this sadly afflicted, the eldest daughter having food and the best ways of using it, write to C. S. Village Seems to Have Been Struck by a Boom.

The boom seems at last to have struck South Royalton, for there are no tenement to let. People do not know where they are to live the coming year. Property is advancing rapidly in value, and new sales are announced daily. Perhaps our village incorporation bill recently passed by the legislature has stimulated this activity.

Miss Edythe M. Perkins has recently refurned from a very pleasant visit to her father at East Hampton, Mass.

Dr. Clayton House, who practiced in Royalton twenty years ag, o but now from Oregon, is visiting in this vicinity.

George W. Brown who has recently sold his farm on White river has purchased the double tenement house of J. Warren Bright, located on Windsor street.

So I believe in the closed shop, because it is only by the closed shop that the workingman can maintain his rights and secure the protection of his life. secure the protection of his life.

One of the chief arguments used in support of the policy of an open shop is that every man has an unalignable and constitutional right to work. I never found veloping of character in man than any other association of men. Their faults are human. The weak-
